

FALL FASHION SHOW

Featuring Garments that Fit

EVERY maker of garments claims prettier styles and better qualities than his neighbors', but on the all important subject of fit, there is a general silence. In selecting Printess garments as leaders in our Fashion Show, we knew that their superior fit would appeal at once to you. You have only to try-on one of these splendid styles to prove the point—for at collar, shoulder, hip and front you'll find a perfect finished fit that will surprise you after your experience with most other garments.

As to style, you have only to see this great array to appreciate the real distinction of design which distinguishes Printess wearers. And the quality of materials, linings and trimmings are all positively guaranteed by the Printess label.

Come in and have a try-on, and be convinced that Printess Coat Suits are in a class by themselves. The best shades for fall—Black, Navy, Green and Grey.

one city is like another. There is no East—no West. He is at home on Michigan Boulevard, on Broadway or in the precincts of Oxford Street, West, London.

Every suit, every overcoat, every raincoat, is made on lines and from materials drawn from the best usage in all parts of the world.

Americans generally know what the Stein-Bloch label stands for—clothing and merchant tailors know it best. They know that the price is adapted to the bank account of every man who wants correct style and good fit.

It was no surprise to them that these clothes were chosen by Selfridge, the London merchant, as the representative product of well-dressed America.

Come in and try on a Stein-Bloch.

The New York Legislative League an organization of "progressive" women, decided by resolution that it is not incumbent on a married woman to use her husband's name. Many of the prominent speakers, however, thought it expedient to do so if the husband was "somebody." Now if a woman uses her own name we shall know that she considers her husband a nobody.

FIGHTING THE BOLL WEEVIL.

Two novel ideas in the campaign against the boll weevil are presented below. The first is stated in this paragraph from the Tyler Courier-Times: "Mr. George R. Phillips made a suggestion which we consider timely practical and useful. It is this: The small squares now forming on cotton of course will not mature, and therefore they are without value. But they afford places for the boll weevil to lay their eggs and hatch and hibernate. Mr. Phillips suggests that farmers, just as soon as they get their cotton out and while the cotton is yet green and the weevil still in these squares, turn their cattle into their cotton fields and let them devour the squares and the weevils eggs all together. He thinks this together with the recent hot weather would just about exterminate the weevil. The plan is an easy one and all concerned, except the weevil ought to enjoy it."

The second is an Associated Press news item which follows:

"Natches, Miss., Oct. 7.—A novel method of forwarding the movement against the boll weevil was advanced here yesterday when a farmer's meeting addressed by experts of the federal government adopted resolutions petitioning the merchants to make no advances to the planters who fail to destroy cotton stalks by November 1. It was declared this would be the means of warding off a return of the pest in a great measure next season."

These suggestions are offered to Brazos county farmers and merchants for what they are worth. They may be valuable or they may not.

A VISION OF A GOOD TIME COMING.

In time it may be so that the people who remain at home and work and do not hang around courthouses and beset the capitals in efforts to get the advantage and the spoils will have some protection against the organized gangs of grafters who are now misappropriating the powers of government as well as the earnings of the "forgotten man."—Galveston News.

Is this the vision of a seer or only the dream of a dreamer? The good time coming has been the theme of poets and sages through all the generations of men. Will it ever become a reality?

There has been no essential change in human nature since the dawn of monumental history 7000 years ago. Then as now the cunning and crafty few took advantage of the weakness of the unsophisticated many to deceive and rob them. Methods have changed but the result is always the same. It will never be otherwise until
